- I already took this course during the spring semester, and I did much better during this course than the previous course. I think the professor utilized class time effectively and gave us numerous opportunities to learn the material through various homework's and worksheets The teaching style of this course was very effective.
- Instructor sent out enthusiastic weekly updates with expectations, which was very helpful for deadlines. Lectures were engaging, which can be especially difficult with online classes. She encouraged feedback and open conversation. I would love to have her as an instructor again.
- The teacher explained the material well. But there were instances where the teaching wasn't engaging enough.
- The expectations were clearly laid out for this course since day one. Classes were always on topic and feedback and discussion was always encouraged. The only small issues I encountered was a lack of availability after class for office hours and the difficulty of the worksheets. To be fair, the office hours were adjusted to different times to accommodate for more students, however the duration of each session was not which made things challenging sometimes (1 hour per session). As for the weekly worksheets, the deadline for theses weren't always consistent leading to rushing at the last minute for a few, and I often found the content of them to be much harder than what we encountered in class even after using past examples to aid me.
